Its ideal for small to medium offices with relatively low frequency binding needs. Binds up to 330 sheets and punches up to 20 sheets. Convenient punch and binding functionality combines with a low force handle to make binding easier on the user. CombBind spines are the classic binding choice. They're sturdy and professional looking, and they allow pages to lie flat for easy reading. Durable spines won't scratch, chip, peel or discolor over time. Machine accepts spines with a maximum 1 " diameter and works with documents in a variety of sizes, including letter sized, oversize and A4 sized documents. Convenient user guide is printed in color on the machine itself, allowing you to easily determine the correct spine size for your project. GBC stands behind this high quality machine with a limited one year warranty. It features the unique QuickStep WorkFlow Guide to lead users instinctively through the whole process using color coding and images, enabling novices and expert binders alike to achieve perfect results every time. Featuring a color coded document and spine size guide. <http://gainliving.com/upload/editor/car-body-parts-manual.xml>

View larger Perfect for Small Offices With a punch capacity of up to 20 80gsm sheets and a binding capability of up to 330 pages, the GBC CombBind C20 is the ideal shared binding solution for the medium sized office with moderate volume needs. From larger training manuals and everyday reports to client proposals, this manual puncher and comb binder enables you to create professional, editable documents of A4 or US letter size. QuickStep WorkFlow for Faster Binding The CombBind C20 is simple and intuitive to operate thanks to the unique QuickStep WorkFlow Guide that leads users instinctively through the whole process using color coding and images. It removes all the frustration from the binding process, enabling novices and expert binders alike to achieve perfect results every time. There's a handy color coded stack height guide, for example, so you can quickly check document thickness and select the correct size of comb for the number of pages you are binding, up to a maximum of 38mm for 330 sheets. A neat locator arrow ensures you align the comb accurately for binding to eliminate time consuming mistakes. Punches up to 20 Sheets The CombBind C20 incorporates low punch force technology which makes punching up to 20 sheets at a time smooth and quick. The vertical punch makes it easier to align paper accurately whilst the gravity fed paper fall mechanism improves productivity. And an easy access chip tray tidily collects the paper waste from the punching process for mess free disposal. Sierras 4.0 out of 5 stars I would have given it a 3.5 out of 5 stars if that were an option. I gave it 4 stars because my main complaint has to do with A4 size paper and most people will not use it for that. The PROS of the GBC C20 model are 1 It has staggered cutting teeth. As you pull the main handle, the teeth engage the paper at different points in the pull stroke, making it much easier to cut through the paper. This is a big help if you are doing a lot of binding. 2 It seems fairly well built and is not too heavy. 3 It will fit inside a 24gallon Action Packer, if you need to travel with it. Put a pillow on the top and bottom, or use clothing if you are comfortable with that. 4 I don't think this is a pro of the machine, but the C20 model has received undue criticism for punching unevenly. There are probably ways that GBC could have improved this, but it isn't that bad. I would say that this is mostly user error. You have to slide the paper back and forth a bit in the slot before punching to ensure that the paper edges are fully seated before punching. If you do not, then you will get uneven punches from bits of the punched paper that haven't yet fallen from prior punches. This can be resolved by learning how to use the machine. The CONS of the C20 model are 1 The stickers on the unit are really nice, but they come off very easily. I have tried again and again to glue them down, but they often come up at the edges. 2 The unit is difficult to clean. I like the removable plastic tray underneath, but the little paper punches go all over the inside of the machine, and I can't find any easy way to get them out. I haven't taken the machine apart, but I suspect that would work.

Anyone have any ideas 3 A4 size paper cutting is crippled on the US machine. I have done a lot of A4 binding with the C20 model while living outside the USA. US letter size paper has 19 holes and 19 teeth combs to fit. The C20 has one serious deficiency for binding A4 size paper. However, the main punch that cuts the holes in the paper will only punch 19 holes no matter what. This is almost criminal on the part of GBC. They advertise A4 size capability, include A4 size settings and enough fingers to pull open a 21 tooth A4 size comb, but the product as sold to me in the USA will only cut 19 slots. I called GBC to confirm this and they stated that it will only cut 19 slots, though the rep seemed surprised when I mentioned that the unit is made in Portugal a country that uses A4 size paper. Under good light, you can even see the extra holes on the far right and left of the cutter that would be available for cutting 21 slots, but they simply did not build the USA units with 21 teeth for cutting A4 size paper. The work around is to use US sized 19 tooth combs when binding A4 size paper, or to manually cut the ends off of an A4 size comb if you buy the combs while living overseas. It doesn't look great, but it works. Two or three pages at most. The problem is that it's very difficult to feed in more than a couple of pages. They catch on some sort of ridge before entering the punch channel. If you are not careful you will have pages punched at an slight angle and you'll have to reprint those before binding. Also the stop for the top of the page is very small and it's easy to have pages slide up over it. This results in a ragged top. I'll probably keep it for now but I would be inclined to get the C10 or C20 next time. Took it out of the box last week and it does not work. Because I waited so long to use it Amazon will not take it back. The binder part works fine. It will NOT punch holes in the paper. Husband tried and got one set of holes punched and nothing after that.

Out of the 19 punch holes only 2 teeth come through. They look misaligned. Told a friend who had purchased hers before mine and she said she started having the same problems so she took hers back and got her money back. Using folders right now as I cannot bind. That may not sound like a big deal, but it's a HUGE deal. The quality of my bind requires those extra millimeters in order to keep the book lasting longer. Its too easy to tear through the pages if its too close to the edge like this. Also, the weight of the machine does not make it effective for use beyond just a couple pages at a time. I think the max I could get in there was about 10. When you pull down the handle to punch the paper the whole machine moves. I only tried hole punching about 5 pages at a time. The handle has now cracked. I have used several Swingline products before with none of these problems. Pros inexpensive. does a good job Cons there are these rubber things on bottom that are useless. One came off and now the whole thing jiggles when you use it. I need to try to pull off all the other ones so it balances it is big clunky and a little heavy Overall i like it Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again The first one wasnt working. The first one wasnt working so we returned it and we paid more than what we got for our return shipping cost plus lots of hassle.
